Nemera reinforces commitment to sustainability with first integrated ESG report

Designed as a snapshot of work over the years and a look into the future, the first ESG report is a new and important step forward in our sustainability journey as a company.

We are thrilled to announce the publication of our first integrated ESG report. This comprehensive document lays out our ESG vision & objectives, provides data and results on the actions we've in place and talks about the ambitious targets we've set ourselves with prestigious external organizations such as EcoVadis, SBTi and United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals. Marc Hämel, CEO of Nemera says, “A long-term ESG approach is not nice-to-have but a must-have for us. We are embedding sustainability criteria in our company processes, empowering our people to make a positive impact on the world around us and establishing a solid governance to deliver on our ESG commitments.”

Sandrine Coutarel, Global EHS Director adds, “Success is built with people. This belief is shared by our management and employees alike and is reflected in the fact that Nemera has placed the needs of patients and employees at the heart of its strategy since the company was founded. Furthermore, it marks a major milestone in our journey toward fulfilling our mission whilst preserving the world we share.”

At Nemera, we take environmental, social, and governance challenges very seriously and work every day to improve the way we do business.
